Project Overview

This is a 48-year-old pre-owned house renovation project. In view of the fact that the owner's business is a trader of hardware products and often invites overseas guests to their home, the team thoughtfully planned the first-floor space as an open reception and dining area to entertain the guests while the private area is on the second floor up. The design team is familiar with the structural safety behavior of the old house renovation and the corresponding relationship between the load-bearing and load-reducing walls between floors. At the same time, in response to the homeowner's needs, the feng shui restrictions are presented in the master bedroom and children's room layout on the second floor in a way that breaks away from the common planning format and makes the space unique.
